with respect to the countries of the world this work addresses two basic questions how does religion affect politics in this country and how does politics affect religion in this country although there are many books on the topics of religion and politics reference works that consider the two together are few with those that do exist primarily addressing theory rather than trends the present work does the latter contextualizing them within regional and national boundaries in so doing it recognizes the power of political and religious ideas and movements on individuals communities and nations making the work a valuable resource for several disciplines among them political science international relations religion and sociology the work focuses on the interplay of religion and politics in countries around the world with an emphasis on the post 2000s it is organized by global geographic regions including africa central and south america and the middle east and presents countries alphabetically within those sections each region has a brief overview of the political religious dynamics of the area so readers can compare and contrast the dynamics between and among countries in a region the work also includes an introduction sidebars and a bibliography

this book is a comprehensive analysis of the criminal defence of self defence from a philosophical legal and human rights perspective the primary focus is on self defence as a defence to homicide as this is the most difficult type of self defensive force to justify although not always recognised as such self defence is a contentious defence permitting as it does the victim of an attack to preserve her life at the expense of another if one holds that all human life is of equal value explaining why this is permissible poses something of a challenge it is particularly difficult to explain where the aggressor is for reasons of non age or insanity for example not responsible for her actions the first part of the book is devoted to identifying the proper theoretical basis of a claim of self defence it examines the classification of defences and the concepts of justification and excuse in particular and locates self defence within this classification it considers the relationship between self defence and the closely related defences of duress and necessity it then proceeds critically to analyse various philosophical explanations of why self defensive killing is justified before concluding that the most convincing account is one that draws on the right to life with an accompanying theory of forfeiture the book then proceeds to draw upon this analysis to examine various aspects of the law of self defence there is detailed analysis of the way in which on a human rights approach it is appropriate to treat the issues of retreat imminence of harm self generated self defence mistake and proportionality with a particular focus on whether lethal force is ever permissible in protecting property or in preventing rape the analysis draws on material from all of the major common law jurisdictions the book concludes with an examination of the implications that the european convention on human rights might have for the law of self defence especially in the areas of mistaken belief and the degree of force permissible to protect property this study examines and analyzes human rights issues from a comparative perspective as the concept of universal human rights gains increasing acceptance in the international community it has come into conflict with formulations of human rights existing in different cultures and legal systems of the world an attempt is made in this study to provide a comprehensive understanding of patterns of human rights values and violations extant in various societies chapters incorporated in this manuscript will include topics relevant to both international relations and comparative politics
